This is an initiative started by the English Chess Federation and run by Lorin D'Costa, the current England Women's Chess Coach. It aims to encourage girls to learn and play Chess. Lorin has set up a Primary Schools Online Chess League, inviting girls aged 11 and under to take part, regardless of their experience and ability, they will represent their school. The top 5 individual scores from each school taking part will be added up to make the school's total score. There is no limit to the number of girls from each school who can take part. The competition is sponsored by Pinpoint Learning. It is completely free for schools and parents. If your daughter is interested and you would like them to take part please email Gary Titmas, the Brunswick House Chess Coach, at gary.titmas@gmail.com for further information.
